

D. FULTON RICE.—Representative from Appanoose county, was born on a farm in that county September 13, 1889, son of J. F. and Sarah E. (Hibbs) Rice. For short periods attended the state normal at Kirksville, Mo., and Drake University. Taught school five years, the last being superintendent at Dike, Iowa. Read law in the office of H. E. Valentine. Attended law school at the University of Michigan and was admitted to the bar in June, 1917. Was nominated for congress by the democratic party in 1918. Enlisted in the judge advocate general's department of the army and served in the Seventeenth division during the World War. Has engaged in the active practice of law at Centerville, Iowa, since the war. Married Ruth Rhea of Centerville, Iowa, June 22, 1919. They have two children, David Fulton, Jr., and Eleanor Rhea. Elected to the forty-first general assembly. Was not a candidate for reelection but succeeded himself under the constitution upon the death of Hon. Charles Harvey Scott, who was elected to the forty-second general assembly. A democrat in politics.

D. FULTON RICE.—Representative from Appanoose county, was born on a farm in that county September 13, 1889. Attended the rural schools and for short periods attended the State Normal at Kirksville, Mo., and Drake University. Taught school five years, the last year being superintendent at Dike, Iowa. Read law in the office of H. E. Valentine, attended law school at Ann Arbor, Michigan, and was admitted to the bar in June, 1917. Was nominated for congress by the democratic party in the eighth congressional district of Iowa, in 1918. After nomination, enlisted in the judge advocate general's department of the army and served in the Seventeenth division during the World War. Has engaged in the active practice of law at Centerville, Iowa, since the war. Married Miss Ruth Rhea of Centerville, Iowa, June 22, 1919, and to them has been born one child, David Fulton, Jr. Belongs to the Methodist church. A democrat in politics.